Art Unit 1713

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 9-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hilti et al., U.S. Patent 5,814,688 or Zilg et al., U.S. Patent 6,197,849.

Each of the cited patents shows phyllosilicates. See specifically Zilg throughout the disclosure and Hilti et al. at column 6 lines 26-65. These patents further teach the incorporation of the phyllosilicates into various polymeric compositions. Each patent specifically identifies styrene acrylonitrile copolymers as well as additional polymeric resins to which the phyllosilicate can be added. See Hilti at column 4 lines 1+ as well as column 5 line 60 - column 6 line 15 as well as the Zilg patent at column 5 lines 40-65. Each of these patents suggests applicants' ingredients and teaches one of ordinary skill in the art that they are to be used in combination with one another. As such, the Examiner maintains that it would be prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to practice the invention as claimed.
